SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 9

Opening: Barbara Chase-Riboud at Michael Rosenfeld Gallery

In 1969, Barbara Chase-Riboud attended the Pan-African Cultural Festival in Algeria. Inspired by a sense of global struggle against systems of oppression and the political rhetoric of Malcolm X, Chase-Riboud produced her first bronze and fabric sculpture in tribute to the slain human rights leader. Drawing on loans from private collectors and museums from around the world, this exhibition will bring together 14 large-scale sculptures of the kind that Chase-Riboud continued to produce for the next 50 years. Alongside these loans will be new steles produced for the exhibition. One is Malcolm X #14 (2017), a black rectangular structure with bent bronze pieces and knotted wool elements.

Michael Rosenfeld Gallery, 100 11th Avenue, 6–8 p.m.

Barbara Chase-Riboud, Malcolm X #14, 2017, bronze with black patina, silk, wool and polished cotton with steel support.
